I'm a GP at Allesley Park Medical Centre in Coventry. I studied medicine at Warwick and did my VTS GP training in Coventry and Warwickshire.

I've been interested in the use of digital technology in general practice since my GP training. I feel the potential for its use in primary care is only just beginning to be realised. I'm looking forward to learning how to maximise the benefits of digital technology for our patients and staff.

Effective utilisation of this technology will require coordination and leadership at all levels of primary care and I'm keen to try to understand how best to achieve this for our local NHS
